Very well written, very challenging, but even more inspiring account of the heart of helping those overlooked or ignored (Matthew 25:40 Msg). The following excerpt may be the summary of the spirit of this book: In the banquet of the kingdom, the broken of the world are honored guests. The outcast and forgotten are sons A full tummy. A clean body. And eyes that sparkle with joy. So much here to break your heart, to touch your soul, and to lift your spirit in laughter, but throughout is the inspiration that following the leading of God no matter how uncomfortable, confusing, or even disgusting, you and so many others will be blessed as a result. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. A great book sharing true experiences of travel abroad. Not the glamorous travel, but the real life travel done by a man searching for ways to make a difference in the world. Entertaining, funny, challenging, compassionate, inspirational and eye opening. This author will touch your heart. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Missions? Travel? Adventure? Life Changing Experience? OH YEAH! By Lauren P. You definitely want to buy this book! Anyone interested in missions, both long and short term should read this before going on the field. As a missionary in Guatemala for 12 years, I have seen thousands of short term team members come and go summer after summer. Many come down with the mindset that they are coming to "save the poor people" and do more harm than good in their mission. Those of us on the mission field full time are often left to pick up the pieces and undo the damage done by good intentioned short term teams. It doesn't have to be that way! Barry's approach to partnership with indigenous leaders is both refreshing and biblical and will give you great perspective as you prepare to cross cultures, languages and enter in as a guest into a foreign ministry. Into the World Next Door will both challenge you and give you hope as you read what God is doing around the world and how you can be involved!

At age 25, Barry Rodriguez left his life as a comfort-loving, picky-eating, suburban couch potato to become a world-traveling photojournalist. What he discovered over the next six years changed his entire perspective on faith, justice, and the kingdom of God. Join Barry as he tells stories of the incredible Christ-followers he met during his travels. Learn alongside him as he experiences new cultures, strange foods, and ridiculously uncomfortable situations, laugh as he makes a fool of himself time and time again, and get a glimpse of how God is working in the lives of the poor and marginalized around the world. NOTE: All proceeds from the sale of this book will be donated to World Next Door's partner ministries!
