had created this. I always amaze with how foreigners put more attention to my city compared to Jakarta's citizens themselves. No Indonesian has ever elaborated Jakarta as fascinating as Andrew did. The history of each area is described though briefly but enough to add knowledge to the readers. Not just he describes about the place of interests, but also explains the directions in details so we know where we head. Exploring the city especially by foot is not something usual that the Jakartans would do. The middle class and up usually go the malls to shop and watch movies, so for the anti-mainstream Jakartans this book helps open our minds to see the unseen Jakarta. Overall, I recommend this book not only for foreigners but also for Jakartans and I thank Andrew to have ever written this.

Richmond This book is beyond excellent: it is an exceptional introduction to the real city of Jakarta. Local people will shrug their shoulders and insist there is little or nothing worthwhile to see in town: they'll tell you to head out to the likes of Yogyakarta as soon as you can. But they are wrong: Jakarta is a fascinating place once you have this book as the key to all that makes it wonderful. All major cities of the world should have a book like this. Ordinary tourist guides list the obvious tourist places and say nothing about real life. This rare book lets you live the life of locals with all its colour, wit and joy -- and squalor sometimes. Take this book with you to Jakarta and it will make you smile and want to stay a month!

Jakarta can be overwhelming -- the heat, the pollution, the narrow winding streets. But this book makes me excited to get out there and explore. I've never before picked up a guidebook that not only informs, but is truly entertaining AND inspiring. The layout of the book makes it easy to use, and there are practical tips and advice in every section. Things that travelers really wonder and worry about, like where am I going to find a bathroom on this walking tour? There is a reassuring tone to the book, which I like. A lot of time I want to try something new, something different, but I don't know what to do or how to do it. This book gives me enough detail and variety to take care of both of those problems. Walking tours of different lengths are laid out in detail that are geared towards interests like museums, wildlife, sporting activities, and just plain interesting and weird sights. If you have this book, it is like having a reassuring adventurous friend who takes you by the hand and says, "Come on, let's have some fun!". The maps are great, and the playfulness of the author's style makes it an entertaining read. I would recommend this book to anyone already living in Jakarta, about to move there, or someone like me -- in Jakarta for an extended visit.

The only Indonesia travel guide you'll need for getting around Jakarta! Everything you need is in this one convenient package including a large pull-out map! Linking over 500 activities and attractions into 25 half-day and full-day excursions, this is the first in-depth travel book on Jakarta that tells you exactly where to go, what to do and how to get there in order to maximize your enjoyment of the city. Illustrated with over 40 maps and 200 color photographs of the city, the 25 tours take you by the hand from the maritime and historical attractions of north Jakarta, down the culturally rich back streets of central Jakarta, to the peaceful parks and family attractions of the south; and on five additional tours outside the city, exploring mountains, lakes and beaches within easy reach of the capital. Each tour starts with a description of the neighborhood's key attractions; cultural and historical background and advice on how to get to the starting point, followed by a step-by-step guide through the walk itself. Tours include high adventure scuba diving, paragliding, rock climbing, microlighting, horse riding and wet and dry market exploration as well as more traditional visits to art galleries, museums, parks and temples. Special interest tours include history walks, urban art walks and market walks. Each chapter gives you the walk length, degree of difficulty and age suitability, so you know exactly what you are getting into before you start. This indispensable Jakarta travel guide is jam-packed with practical tips on what to wear, what to bring, expect and say to the local people you encounter as you explore areas of Jakarta off the beaten path, and re-explore favorite neighborhoods with new insight. Written by resident expert Andrew Whitmarsh, this book makes exploring Jakarta on foot fun, safe and easy.

"The book is bright and colourful and funny and useful and FULL of cool things to do in Jakarta. It's got some secrets that I bet even you don't know about!" #8212 Travel Junkie Indonesia "Exploring Jakarta made easy with trail-blazing travel guide." #8212 The Jakarta Globe "Andrew Whitmarsh and wife Melanie Wood have taken a brave step in producing an excellent walking-tour guide dedicated to visitors as well as inhabitants of Jakarta." The Jakarta Post

About the Author Andrew Whitmarsh is a travel and adventure writer who has been exploring and writing about Jakarta for many years. Raised on bear attack survival books, Andrew viewed his initial move to Jakarta as a survivalist's challenge in an urban jungle. Over the years he has ridden on top of trains, joined street protests, seen a ghost, experienced fire therapy and had needles stuck in his head all for the sake of experiencing Jakarta to the full. Jakarta-based Melanie Wood is a freelance writer and photographer who moved to Indonesia because she "liked the shape of it." Her blog, Gangs of Indonesia, gives some of the stories behind the photographs in this book. (Note, "gang" in Indonesian means narrow street.)
