I opened the book looking for some camping in Southern California and the first thing I noticed was that the San Bernardino mountains are considered the Southern Sierras in this book. All credibility lost. I took a look at the "best sites" and was very disappointed at the amount of effort put into finding some interesting sites. They are not even tent only sites. Be prepared to share some campgrounds with RVs. Returning the book.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. good info for tent camper, hard to index sitesBy Keun Young Yoo title shows it all, for tent campers who hates RV noises around. You have to work on it to sort out camp sites and area. It is listed in alphabetical order withing category. Very awkward. this book can be improved much to be favorite title to many campers.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Great camping referenceBy Alan D SchmidtJust a good and detailed guide to So Cal Tent camping. I would recommend this for anyone thinking about where to camp.

From the aromatic pine woods and cascading streams of the southern Sierra Nevada to the starkly beautiful desert landscapes of Death Valley, The Best in Tent Camping: Southern California is a guidebook for tent campers who like quiet, scenic, and serene campsites. It's the perfect resource if you blanch at the thought of pitching a tent on a concrete slab, trying to sleep through the blare of another camper's boombox, or waking to find your tent surrounded by a convoy of RVs. Whether you are a Southern California native in search of new territory or a vacationer on the lookout for that dream campground, this book will help you unlock the secrets to the best tent camping that Southern California has to offer.

...excellent guide...find places to pitch your tent near desert wildflowers, pine woods, southern Sierra streams or ocean breezes. -- Daily News, November 4, 1004 Campgrounds are rated on overall beauty, privacy, quiet, security, peacefulness. Detailed write-ups include area highlights and personal anecdotes. -- Marek Warszawski, The Fresno Bee, December 6, 2004 From the Back Cover If you subscribe to the opinion that televisions, Japanese lanterns, and electric guitars are not essential camping equipment, The Best in Tent Camping should be your constant companion. Each campground profile includes: Detailed campground maps Key information such as fees, restrictions, and dates of operation Driving directions to the campground Ratings for beauty, privacy, spaciousness, quiet, security, and cleanliness From the aromatic pine woods and cascading streams of the southern Sierra Nevada to the starkly beautiful desert landscapes of Death Valley, The Best in Tent Camping: Southern California is a guidebook for tent campers who like quiet, scenic, and serene campsites.
