Stephanie Chandler : The Conference Catcher: An Organized Journal for Capturing Ideas, Resources and Action Items at Educational Conferences, Trade Shows, and Events before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Conference Catcher: An Organized Journal for Capturing Ideas, Resources and Action Items at Educational Conferences, Trade Shows, and Events:

2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. A Valuable Tool for Every Conference By Christine Giri I received an early copy of The Conference Catcher before it was released and I was instantly impressed. As a productivity consultant, I find it to be a valuable tool for anyone who is attending a conference and wants to get the most benefit from their time there. I'll be recommending this to conference organizers because it is clearly a crowd-pleaser. I know that I will be putting mine to good use! Christine Giri, Time Tamer Consulting

Has this ever happened to you? You attended an educational conference, took notes on random hotel notepads and scraps of paper, met interesting people, collected business cards, and returned home loaded with ideas and enthusiasm. Yet, while there were dozens of actions you intended to take immediately, upon your return to the real world, somehow those notes and ideas ended up in a pile somewhere and never got implemented.

From the AuthorDear reader, This journal was born from my own experiences attending trade shows and events. I was frustrated by the fact that I would come home with notes and a stack of business cards, and then get swept away in daily life. Worst of all, I lost track of those notes and contacts. I can still recall a conference I attended three years ago and wish that I knew where I put those notes! I have been overwhelmed by the feedback I have received on The Conference Catcher. It appears to have hit a nerve for a lot of people. I hope that you find it valuable for your next event!
